LET’S GET FALL 2015 OFF AND RUNNING!

Join us for the Fall 2015 Webinar series.

Facilitated by Cari Mathwig Ramseier, Instructional Designer and faculty members like you!

For those who cannot attend, recordings will be available via http://bit.ly/2015VUFallWebinars following each webinar.

Instructions to join the live webinars will be sent a day or two prior to the event.

Effective Online Discussions
Tuesday, September 8th – 5:30-6:30pm
In this session we will discuss types of and reasons for using online discussions. We will also look further to find what practices encourage successful discussions and methods for review/assessment.

Increasing Social Presence in An Online Learning Community
Thursday, September 10th – 5:30-6:30pm
In order to engage and retain students, social presence is key to foster instructor-to-student interaction as well as student-to-student interaction. This session will offer some strategies and tools to foster online teaching success.

Using Rubrics and Marking Guides for Assessment
Tuesday, September 22nd – 5:30-6:30pm
In this session we will discuss types of and reasons for using online discussions. We will also look further to find what practices encourage successful discussions and methods for review/assessment.

The Importance of Feedback in an Online Course
Thursday, October 1st – 5:30-6:30pm
When teaching online and blending courses, using the tools available in Moodle to provide feedback (rather than sending feedback via email) is expected. In this lesson, we will explore some of the commonly-used tools in Moodle and ways to provide feedback using those tools.

Active Learning Strategies
Tuesday, October 6th – 5:30-6:30pm
So what makes learning “active?” How can we keep students motivated and avoid the mid-semester “slump?” In this session we will identify and share strategies that keep students engaged in both online and face-to-face courses.
Register via http://bit.ly/151006VUActiveLearn