

Education

MAJOR @ VITERBO UNIVERSITY

10/10

Overview

Completion of an education degree will lead to eligibility to apply for a teaching license in any state in the U.S. Educators provide an invaluable service to society by guiding children and youth in the acquisition of cognitive, social, emotional, and physical skills.

Why Viterbo?

The Viterbo University education program:

- is nationally accredited by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education and approved by the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction.
- features a strong, collaborative partnership with area schools.
- offers field experience in local schools during the freshman year. At some universities students wait until junior year to begin field experience.
- has 100 percent of faculty members who are licensed teachers and have extensive teaching experience in the Pre-K–12 world. Faculty are caring and approachable.
- offers personalized academic advising along with an excellent student/faculty ratio.
- has a superb reputation for the preparation of teachers in the region and the state.

Career Options
