

Call for Papers on the Theme: The Promise of Liberation Philosophy Deadline: October 10, 2012

The Journal of Analytic Teaching and Philosophical Praxis (AT&PP)

The journal of Analytic Teaching and Philosophical Praxis (formerly Analytic Teaching) seeks article submissions that explore the transformative potential of Liberation Philosophy. Liberation philosophy continues to challenge the place and purpose of traditional philosophy, altering in a radical way the very praxis of philosophy as a discipline and way of life. This CFP is in conjunction with the conference on Bartolomé de Las Casas to be held Oct. 5-6, 2012 at Viterbo University, and seeks to expand the purview of the conference into the larger domains of liberation philosophy and liberation theology. AT&PP is interested in essays that explore the continuing relevance of liberation philosophy in the fields of education, politics, theology, aesthetics and ethics. Possible topics for consideration include but are not limited to:

- the challenge of liberation philosophy
- liberation philosophy and/or liberation theology and the environment
- the difference between liberation philosophy and liberation theology
- philosophy for children and liberation philosophy
- liberation philosophy and social movements in Latin America
- the relationship between phenomenology/critical theory/Marxism and liberation philosophy
- the analysis of a specific thinker in the tradition of liberation philosophy (e.g., Dussel or Freire)
- how is liberation philosophy/liberation theology embodied in artworks or other cultural practices
- how is liberation philosophy pertinent to the U.S. experience
- what is the relationship between liberation philosophy and American (Anglo-analytic) philosophy

Articles can be submitted in either English, Spanish or Portuguese

Direct submissions to: Dr. Jason J. Howard, Chief Editor, Analytic Teaching and Philosophical Praxis, Viterbo University, e-mail: jjhoward@viterbo.edu.

Submissions should follow a standardized reference format (Chicago manual of style- format references as endnotes or APA or MLA). Articles should be approximately 4000-8000 words, e-mailed as a word document or RTF, and prepared for 'blind-review' (with author's name and institutional affiliation appearing on a separate page).

The deadline for article submissions is October 10, 2012. Accepted articles should appear in Vol. 33 of Analytic Teaching and Philosophical Praxis in the spring of 2013.

Analytic Teaching and Philosophical Praxis (ATPP) is an on-line, peer-reviewed, open access, academic journal published out of Viterbo University (La Crosse, WI) dedicated to exploring the deeper philosophical, political, social and ethical implications of education.