

Submission Guidelines of Analytic Teaching and Philosophical Praxis

The Journal of Analytic Teaching and Philosophical Praxis

---

The editors are looking for articles that address the concerns specified under the journal's mission statement. As a rule, the journal accepts only original articles that have not been previously published. The articles should be written in a scholarly style yet accessible to wide a variety of audiences and readers, some of whom may not have professional training in academic philosophy.

Analytic Teaching and Philosophical Praxis (ATPP) is an on-line journal that is usually published twice a year, but this can vary depending on the number of submissions and the number of 'calls for papers.'

Periodically ATPP may publish a hard copy of certain volumes and mail these to interested institutions and individuals on a complimentary basis, but this is dependent on a number of factors.

Article submissions should follow a standardized reference format (Chicago manual of style- format references as endnotes or APA or MLA with accompanying Works Cited). Articles should be approximately 4000-8000 words, e-mailed as a word document or RTF, and prepared for 'blind-review' (with author's name and institutional affiliation appearing on a separate page).
